HOSPITALITY EXPERIENCE & DESIGN

1. Curtis Furniture Bespoke Kitchenettes

Curtis Furniture has supplied Locke's first West London aparthotel with bespoke kitchenettes. The Leeds-based company manufactured more than 100 fully-fitted kitchens in 15 design types and five different sizes for Ember Locke, the group's sixth site in London. The interiors bring to life many of the design features from the original Victorian building. For Curtis Furniture, these quirks soon became apparent, with many of the units requiring a completely bespoke design due to, for instance, the eaves in the attic rooms. Once bespoke design solutions were complete, Curtis supplied the drawers and cupboards of the kitchen carcasses to fit-out specialists County Contractors to install within the property. Their classic forest green shade complements the aparthotel's colour palettes of deep and tonal reds, with pops of yellow and gold. Mark Heathman, Director at County Contractors, comments: "We have worked with Curtis Furniture on many hotel projects and I am pleased to say that, yet again, they performed well on our latest project for Ember Locke in Kensington. They manufactured 120 kitchens for our project, all with paint finish doors and drawer fronts. The company was a great support in engineering and designing kitchens, which worked across the many challenging room types in this beautiful period building." www.curtisfurniture.co.uk

2. Karpa & Gansk Sigma

The Sigma dining table comprises a sculptural base crafted from resin and reinforced with fibreglass, finished in a brass colour unique to Karpa & Gansk. A walnut root top with a high glass finish placed above the base adds extra shine and a touch of warmth to the table. Each section of the top showcases the unique patterns and grains of the walnut wood, creating a captivating visual display for the 10-12 guests that can dine around the table. Designed to be a striking centrepiece in any dining space, Sigma invites guests to comfortably immerse themselves in a multisensory dining experience, with a design that fuses art and functionality. www.karpa.pt

3. Freifrau Leya en Vogue

Furniture manufacturer Freifrau is giving its Leya en Vogue collection a makeover for its tenth birthday, bringing a touch of Parisian haute couture to lounges, bars and lobbies through chic indoor seating options. Bold colour combinations, structural patterning and geometric forms have been brought together by design duo Hoffmann Kahleyss, adding a new twist to the collection. With various models and variations available, the Leya range is versatile, suited to a variety of interiors and design styles. Each piece is also custom-made, facilitating multiple configuration options, while products can be finished in non-slip leather or supple fabrics too. www.freifrau.com
